Brad J. Domitrovitsch, Pennsylvania Businessman and Entrepreneur, Recognized as Featured Speaker at Pittsburgh Smart Business Dealmakers Conference

BETHLEHEM, Pa. — Brad J. Domitrovitsch, an American businessman and entrepreneur with more than two decades of experience building and scaling companies across multiple industries, was featured as a speaker at the Pittsburgh Smart Business Dealmakers Conference, where he addressed a professional audience of investors, acquirers, and deal-making executives on the topic of risk quantification in complex transactions.

Domitrovitsch holds a Bachelor of Science in Economics and a Master of Business Administration from Moravian College in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, where he graduated as Valedictorian of his MBA class. His career spans recycling, transportation, water infrastructure, energy services, and environmental consulting.

At the conference, Domitrovitsch noted that most business operators say risk is elevated without actually quantifying what that means for their specific transactions. His remarks drew on lessons from multiple deal cycles across multiple industries, with particular emphasis on counterparty risk analysis.

Domitrovitsch founded the Hydration Company of Pennsylvania in 2011. The company was awarded a United States patent in August 2020. In 2017 he executed a reverse merger to take the company public as American Energy Partners, Inc., an OTC-traded company he led as Chairman, Chief Executive Officer, and Chief Financial Officer.

Under his leadership, American Energy Partners completed six strategic acquisitions and grew to a peak market capitalization of over $75 million with approximately 160 employees. In 2023 the company changed its name to American Environmental Partners, Inc.

Domitrovitsch is also the founder and owner of West End Consulting Group LLC.
